

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم
انجليزي قراءة ( اهل ملاوي كانوا لطفاء مع ابنها )
[أسئلة مراجعة - انجليزي قراءة - فهد عبدالرحمن عبدالله بن دهيش]

1) What is the name of the heroine in the story

- George
- Dorothy
- Jordan
- Paul

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then, Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps , there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

2) Dorothy has a son and his name is

- George
- Dorothy
- Jordan
- Paul

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then, Dorothy had a husband and three sons.

Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps. There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents."

Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "...} parents "that was just the beginning.

Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.

One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. She accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.

"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine. She is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps, and she has returned the favor many times more.

3) what is the greatest number of packages Dorothy has ever sent to Malawi

- it was 76 boxes
- it was 78 boxes
- it was 70 boxes
- it was 80 boxes

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then, Dorothy had a husband and three sons.

Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps. There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents."

Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "...} parents "that was just the beginning.

Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.

One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. She accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.

"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine. She is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps, and she has returned the favor many times more.

4) what are some important events/dates from Dorothy's life

- When she was born
- When she died
- When she moved to West
- When she was born and moved to West

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

5) Each year, Dorothy send from ..... packages full of clothing to Malawi

- 36 to 40
- 38 to 40
- 39 to 40
- 37 to 40

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

6) Sending packages began 23 ..... ago

- years
- days
- months
- weeks

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

7) Dorothy had been renting some of her ..... In her house

- cars
- chairs
- rooms
- ankle supporters

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

8) Each year, Dorothy sends packages of clothing to a small country in Africa called

- Nigeria
- Malaysia
- Malawi
- South Africa

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

9) She uses the clothes to give them to ..... people

- arms
- needy
- rich
- Famous

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

10) The number of families she is providing for has grown to

- 80
- 50
- 70
- 60

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

11) Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families in a

- laptop
- paper
- Small book
- account

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.
Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps . There Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"
Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.
Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.
One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.
"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine . she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps , and she has returned the favor many times more.

12) She sorts the clothes according to

- size
- small
- need

One of the most respected persons in the Beacon Hill community of Boston is Dorothy. She was born on December 3, 1908, in Providence, Rhode Island, and moved to the old West End in 1941, then to Beacon Hill in 1953. By then; Dorothy had a husband and three sons.

Each year, Dorothy sends from 38 to 40 packages full of clothing to a small country in Africa called Malawi, it all began 23 years ago when her youngest son, Jordan, was in Malawi in the Peace Corps. there Jordan met a family that came to be known as his {...} parents"

Dorothy had been renting out some of her rooms in her house. A man left a suitcase there and she wrote him about it. After waiting a year for a reply from him, she opened it and decided that those clothes could be used by some of the needy people in Malawi. So she sent them to her sons "{...} parents "that was just the beginning.

Dorothy spends about $2,000 a year on postage and sends away clothes collected from neighbors and family. The number of families she is providing for has grown to 70. In a small book Dorothy keeps track of all 70 families. She sorts the clothing according to size and packs them based on each family's needs. Dorothy brings the package to the post office and off it goes.

One of the high points of her project was for her to send 76 boxes the year she turned 76. she accomplished this task, and it shows just how much difference one person can make.

"It is so gratifying to me when a neighbor comes by with an armful of clothes. I would rather have that than a thousand dollars". These are words of an 88-year-old woman; a heroine. she is a woman who places importance on doing for others, even those she never met. The people of Malawi were kind to her son when he was in the Peace Corps, and she has returned the favor many times more.