

Characters
ANIMAL FARM		represent
Mr. Jones The owner of Manor Farm. He forces the animals to work and doesn't take good care of them. He has a good life but doesn't share his good fortune with the animals, and they feel mistreated		Czar Nicholas The king of Russia, from a dynasty 300 years in the making. He lived well while Russian peasants starved. Married to Alexandra, several children
Old Major The oldest pig on the farm, he has a dream and comes up with the idea of an animal revolution against man.		Karl Marx/Vladimir Lenin These two men came up with the theory of Communism and inspired others to pursue the Revolution.
Napoleon A pig who fights with Snowball for control of the farm. He says he wants good conditions for all, but is really greedy.		Josef Stalin Stalin had a power struggle with Leon Trotsky for the direction Russia (or the Soviet Union) would take after the Revolution
Snowball An intellectual pig who wants good conditions and education for all the animals. He is betrayed by Napoleon and exiled from the farm.		Leon Trotsky One of the revolutionary leaders who favored Socialism over Communism. He wanted better conditions and education for the common man, and was exiled to Mexico by Stalin.
Squealer A pig who acts as Napoleon's "mouthpiece" and he lies to cover up the crimes Napoleon commits.		Pravda A state-run newspaper that was used by Stalin to control news, information and propaganda.
Boxer A horse whose motto was "I will work harder" and "Napoleon is always right."		Russian workers The "proletariat", or common workers, made Stalin's Soviet regime work. They did not benefit from their hard work.
Mollie A white horse who loves the ribbons and sugar the humans gave her. She misses the old days.		Czarist supporters Some Russians remained loyal to the Czar. They are called 'czarists' and they had usually benefited from the Czar's lavish lifestyle.
Pigs: they represent the Communist party Dogs (puppies): they represent the KGB secret police Moses the Raven: represents Orwell's idea that religion is used to keep people confused Sheep: they represent people who are blind followers and who don't think for themselves. Other humans: represent different countries that had dealings with the Soviet Union (Hitler's Germany, Churchill's England, etc.)			